For Immediate Release

York, Pa. - Barley Snyder is pleased to announce Attorney Andrew J. Mahon has recently joined the firm.

Mahon brings over a decade of experience in the areas of immigration and employment law. In his immigration practice, he represents families and businesses seeking immigration benefits in addition to defending individuals placed in removal proceedings. Mahon has significant experience representing hundreds of clients before numerous immigration law agencies.

"I am excited to join a firm with expanded resources in immigration law located in the heart of Central Pennsylvania," said Mahon. "Barley Snyder has a terrific reputation serving clients in a variety of markets and a profound history of representing and defending individuals facing challenges with immigration matters. I very much look forward to being part of that ongoing mission."

Before joining Barley Snyder, Mahon worked at a Lancaster law firm focused primarily on immigration law where he was named partner in 2019. Prior to that, he was a staff attorney for the Pennsylvania Immigration Resource Center (PIRC) where he helped underserved individuals in need of immigration services.

"Andrew will be a stellar addition to our growing team, our immigration practice, and the firm in its entirety," said managing partner Jeff Lobach. "His considerable leadership, experience and knowledge in the realm of immigration law will be a tremendous benefit to our clients and colleagues alike."

Involved in his community, Mahon volunteers as a tax preparer for the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program and is a volunteer lawyer and former board president of PIRC. He is also a volunteer lawyer and former liaison committee member for the American Immigration Lawyers Association. He received his bachelor's degree from Fordham University and earned his juris doctor degree from Widener University School of Law. Prior to law school, Mahon lived in Bordeaux, France for two years working as an English teacher.
