For Immediate Release

Lancaster, Pa. - Barley Snyder has announced changes to its management committee effective January 1.

The firm's management committee, which is responsible for the leadership of the firm and the achievement of its long-range goals, is led by Jennifer Craighead Carey who has been a member of the committee since January 2021 and became the firm's managing partner effective January 1. Partners and incumbent management committee members Kimberly J. Decker and Troy B. Rider will serve alongside Craighead Carey and newly elected management committee members John T. Reed and Jeremy D. Frey. Partner Paul W. Minnich cycled off the committee on December 31 after four years of service.

"As managing partner, I look forward to working alongside these dedicated and talented professionals in leading our exceptional firm," said Craighead Carey. "It is an exciting time, and I have full confidence that we will continue the firm's success into the coming years."

Jeff Lobach, who was the firm's managing partner through the end of 2023, added "I am grateful for the invaluable contributions of our management committee and for the support of our entire team during my ten years as managing partner. I have no doubt that Barley Snyder will continue to grow and thrive under our capable and energetic new leadership."
