For Immediate Release

Hanover, Pa. - Barley Snyder is pleased to announce that partner Jeremy Frey has been admitted to practice law in the state of Maryland.

Frey, who is based out of Barley Snyder's Hanover office, is the chair of the firm's Business Practice Group and a member of its Real Estate Practice Group. He is one of several attorneys at the firm who are admitted to practice in Maryland. Barley Snyder has remained dedicated to having more attorneys licensed to practice in the state since many of its Pennsylvania clients are expanding there. The firm has two offices in Maryland, located in Hunt Valley and Columbia.

"Our commitment to client needs drives us to continually evolve and expand our service offerings. The Maryland market is flourishing, and it is vital to be able to help our clients who do business there. I look forward to assisting clients based in Maryland or who are looking to expand their operations into the state," said Frey.

Active in his community, Frey is on the board of directors at the Hanover Area Chamber of Commerce. He has served in prior roles with other local organizations including as the president of the board of directors of the Hanover Area Family YMCA. A credit to his legal acumen, Frey was named to the 2024 Best Lawyers in America list for Closely Held Companies and Family Businesses Law.

In addition to Maryland, Barley Snyder has numerous attorneys admitted to practice in other states including Connecticut, Florida, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Virginia and the District of Columbia.
