Lancaster, Pa. - The Central Penn Business Journal has announced that eight Barley Snyder professionals have been named in the publication's first-ever "Legal Excellence Awards."

"The 2021 Legal Excellence recipients excel in their careers. These outstanding individuals play a critical role in making their organizations successful," said Suzanne Fischer-Huettner, senior group publisher of Central Penn Business Journal. "They are committed to the legal profession in addition to their communities. We at the Central Penn Business Journal are honored to recognize their achievements."

CPBJ chose the Barley Snyder professionals in a number of different categories:

David J. Freedman - Pro Bono Excellence

Thomas A. French - Leaders in Law

Hon. Stephen P. Linebaugh \(Ret.\) - Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR)

John M. Quain Jr. - Up and Coming Lawyers

Erica R. Townes - Up and Coming Lawyers

Jessika Warnick - Paralegal

Luke T. Weber - Up and Coming Lawyers

Sarah C. Yerger - Lifetime Achievement

"We are delighted that our professionals continue to receive recognition that distinguishes them in their profession." Barley Snyder managing partner Jeff Lobach said. "Those recognized by the Central Penn Business Journal come from offices across our footprint, at every experience level, and in different practice areas. We credit them for the hard work and dedication that has merited the special recognition of their achievements."
